Censor Fine Paid; Star to Hit Millwood

Alex. H. Washburn, editor and publisher of The Star, told the Prescott Rotary Club at the Lee Hotel in Prescott today that he paid the Internal Revenue Service this morning $2,499.43 as a censorship fine levied against him personally for circulating and paying the expenses of the 1955 petition to obtain a popular vote on the legislative act exempting poultry and livestock feed from state sales tax.

Of the total amount, $2,015.78 was for double taxation on the $6,024.98 he spent in that campaign, the editor said, and balance $483.65 was for 6% interest. The assessment, levied because the Treasury said Washburn was attempting to influence legislation, became due following the Tax Court's ruling against the editor last March. Washburn has appealed to the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals, St. Louis.

Remarking that his case has won the united support of newspapers and newspaper people all over America, Washburn told the Prescott Rotarians that there is a chance interference by the Internal Revenue Service with free speech and press will be stopped should the amended Boggs bill, H. R. 7123, be enacted in the short time remaining for the present session of Congress. The Boggs bill would forbid the IRS from disallowing expense deductions incurred in fighting for or against pending legislation, whether before legislative bodies or referendum.

Spend, O.K.; Save, "No"
"But until the Boggs bill or its equivalent becomes law," Washburn said, "as matters now stand you can spend money lobbying for a public expenditure and take the deduction from your income tax return — but if you happen to be opposed to a spending program then you are 'influencing legislation' and your deduction is disallowed."
"Of course income tax was paid on all that $6,000 I spent on the 1955 petition. It was paid by the people who received the $6,000 — attorneys, printers, and canvassers. The government's claim upon me, who spent the money instead of receiving it, is the flat, arbitrary action of a dictator — fining a newspaper editor because he dared to speak out on the policies of government . . . the same general government for which the tax collectors work."

"Until corrective legislation is put through the Congress I know of no way to fight this evil except to awaken the people by attacking federal works projects in our own area."

"If the price of federal public works is to be our right to free speech and press, then the price is too high — and the person delegated in our U.S.A. to say so, is a newspaper editor."

The Hope Star was one of the original advocates of the construction of Millwood Dam on Little River. We are a member of the group which is lobbying for this improvement, the Red River Valley Association, and pay them $50 a year in dues — and once I went to Washington in Millwood's behalf at an expense of $300 . . . all tax-deductible, of course.

No Millwood Money
"Well, we'll continue to support the organization behind Millwood — but any construction money they get for Millwood will be over my dead body, until Congress changes the outrageous IRS rule that you are a good boy if you spend money but a bad one if you save it."

"In Washington April 13 I told our home congressman, Orin Harris, and Wilbur Mills, Chairman of the Ways & Means Committee, that I put this freedom of press and speech before all issues — including the Russian."

"Today I am spelling it out plainly — there won't be any Millwood dam until the Internal Revenue Service takes its foot off the neck of newspaper editors."

Washburn pointed out to the Prescott Rotarians that creeping Socialism today threatens the fundamental rights of all private business, but if the people are misled into abandoning free press and speech then they will never be able to fight their way back to individual freedom.

Washington Ready With July 4 Tour

The third annual July 4 Homecoming event will be held at Washington under sponsorship of the Community Accomplishment Club.

Since restoration efforts were begun in 1958 the Old Tavern has been reconstructed with a $35,000 gift from Mr. and Mrs. William R. King of Memphis making it possible. Now under construction is the blacksmith shop where the famous Bowie knife was made. This was made possible by a gift from Albert Simms of Albuquerque, N. M. The State is now spending $5,000 redecorating the old Confederate Capitol building.

The July 4 celebration includes: Registration at the Tavern, Parade at 10 a. m., Tour following the Parade, Luncheon at 12 noon, "Miss Hempstead Forestry Queen Contest" at 2 p. m., Speaking at 2:30 on the old courthouse lawn with William Rock, head of the Arkansas Industrial Development Commission, as speaker.

Political candidates, state and county.

Another Seeks Bombing Reward

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Mrs. J.C. Crawley, a cafe operator who testified in bombing trials of two men, is the fifth person to seek part of $25,000 reward posted for solution of three bombings here last Labor Day.

She has testified she saw three of five men charged in the integration-related bombings together shortly before the blasts went off. Three men are appealing their convictions, one is in prison and one has not been tried.

Four other persons also have applied for the reward, raised by the Chamber of Commerce.

All former students at the old Patmos School . . . the Grange Hall School and the Hinton School will meet at 1 p. m. Sunday, July 3 at Fair park for a picnic . . . everyone is asked to bring a basket lunch. . . this is the first time such a gathering has been planned by the former students and it is hoped to make

Woman Admits Shooting Officer

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Naomi Shinn of Kansas City, Mo., has been released on $10,000 bond after testifying she shot a Kansas City policeman in self-defense June 16.

"At a hearing before Circuit Judge Haffrell Simpson yesterday, she said Francis B. Hollman, 47, had a knife in his hand when she shot him at a Lakewood motel. She said he had threatened to kill her and had struck her."

Mrs. Shinn faces trial Sept. 12 on a first degree murder charge. She is a native of Fulton County, Ark.

Home Isn't Safe Against Search Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—By a 4-4 vote the Supreme Court Monday upheld a Dayton (Ohio) ordinance requiring homeowners to admit housing inspectors without search warrants. Justice Stewart dissented.

The Dayton ordinance provides for "minimum standards governing utilities and other physical things and conditions in dwellings."

Homeowners who refuse to admit inspectors may be fined $20 to $200 or imprisoned 2 to 30 days for each day they refuse to admit inspectors.

This is the second case in which the Supreme Court has struck down the guarantee that an American's home shall be safe against entry and search except by a duly-issued search warrant.

The earlier case was Maryland's so-called "cockroach law," in which the Supreme Court upheld the right of sanitary inspectors to enter private property without a warrant.

Tells About Losing His 3 Children

REDFIELD, Ark. (AP)—"That car just lifted up. . . I knew it was gone," said Sgt. Roy Branscum. With it went the lives of three of his four children in a flash flood yesterday.

Branscum, 35, his Japanese-born wife, Motoko, 28, and a son, Carl, 4, were rescued after they spent nearly an hour clinging to tree trunks in the swollen creek which swept over U.S. Highway 65 near here.

The body of Marilyn Lou, 8, was recovered by a skindiver from the Branscum car, which was swept off the road.

The family was returning to New Orleans, where Branscum is stationed with the Armed Forces Police, after visiting his mother, Mrs. Roxie Branscum, in Harness (St. Louis County), Ark.

Branscum said he hesitated before driving his car into the patch of water some 20 or 400 feet wide along the highway.

But, he said, other cars were going through and "it wasn't so deep that you couldn't see the yellow lines on the highway."

After driving about 50 yards into the water, the car slipped off the road, then tumbled into the creek, turned into a turbulent lake by heavy showers.

Branscum pulled his wife and three sons from the car, but could not get his daughter. Two of the boys vanished. Mrs. Branscum grabbed a piece of floating debris and Carl tumbled into her arms "like he was pushed," Branscum said.

Arthur Dollar, 35, of Redfield who had gone to the scene anticipating stalled cars would need help, plunged into the water, despite a back injury which retired him from federal service.

He assisted mother and son to a tree trunk, then was forced to clutch a tree himself.

Asks Limit to Cotton Imports

MEMPHIS, (AP)—The National Cotton Council says the cotton industry should ask Congress to limit imports of cotton textiles.

The suggestion came after the Tariff Commission said yesterday in Washington that cotton imports were not interfering with the Agriculture Department's subsidy program.

The commission thus made no recommendation to President Eisenhower for imposing fee or other restrictions on imports of articles containing the fiber.

The Cotton Council said it was "upset and bitterly disappointed."

The council said the Tariff Commission refused to recognize "the damaging effects of the relentless upswing of cotton textile imports."

Kennedy Has More Resistance

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Four governors huddled in Montana and 200,000 voters trek to the polls in North Dakota today in a pair of political events deeply affecting the presidential race.

The governors, favorite sons who will control 169 votes at the Democratic National Convention, may be devising a strategy to make sure Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts does not win the nomination on the first ballot.

The voters, picking a new senator for North Dakota, may give Republicans a sign whether to expect a revolt in the farm belt in November.

The governors, who will meet informally while attending the annual governors conference in Montana's Glacier National Park, denied that they were organizing a stop-Kennedy movement.

But their remarks indicated that they wanted the convention in Los Angeles to be more than an all-Kennedy show.

"We just want to see if anybody else is running," said Gov. Robert E. Meyner of New Jersey, who suggested the breakfast caucus.

"It would be ridiculous to have a convention like the Republicans with one candidate only," said Gov. Herschel C. Loveless of Iowa.

"We don't want just another Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner," said Gov. Edmund G. Brown of California.

Meyner, Loveless, Brown, and the fourth governor, George Docking of Kansas, would receive their states' votes on the first ballot if the delegations continued to support them as favorite sons.

The total might be enough to prevent Kennedy from winning on the first ballot. He would need 761 votes for the nomination. His supporters claim he already has more than 700. But they count votes from the four states with favorite son governors.

In North Dakota, fair weather is expected as voters choose between Republican Gov. John E. Davis and Democratic Rep. Quentin N. Burdick. They are running for the Senate seat left vacant by the death of William Langer, a Republican.

Political analysts will scan the results for clues to the answers to these questions: How angry are farmers over the policies of Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson? Will the farm vote go against the Republicans in November? Are farmers more interested in other issues than the farm issue?

The answers may not be found easily, for both candidates oppose the policies of Benson.

Meanwhile, there was more discussion over whether Kennedy wants the support of Southern delegates. At the governors conference, a Kennedy backer assured everyone that the senator did.

Gov. Abraham Ribicoff of Connecticut said Kennedy was mailing a letter to every Southern delegate replying that he wants support from all delegates, without exception.

In New York last week, Kennedy had been quoted as indicating he did not expect support from the South.

Two Sentenced for Robbery

HOT SPRINGS, Ark. (AP)—Donald House, 28, and James Bird, 26, were sentenced to seven years in prison after pleading guilty yesterday to armed robbery charges in connection with a $200 Hot Springs holdup.

Ike Rejects All Criticism, Will Travel Again

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, rejecting all criticism of his ventures in personal diplomacy, held the way open today for another goodwill trip abroad should he deem it necessary to promote free world unity.

"I would not hesitate a second to make another tour under such circumstances," he said.

The chance that he will embark on a new journey during his last seven months in office is slight, Eisenhower indicated Monday night. But his declaration of readiness to go summed up dramatically his argument that previous travels have greatly strengthened free world ties and served "to obstruct Communist imperialism."

In a half-hour television address to the nation, the President said the cancellation of his scheduled visit to Japan 10 days ago stemmed from Communist-inspired disorders in Tokyo.

But he said his inability to go had been far outweighed in importance by Japan's subsequent ratification of a new security pact with the United States. He called that a "signal defeat for international communism" and "an important victory for the free world."

As for the Tokyo riots which prevented his visit to Japan, he commented that "these disorders were not occasioned by America," and added: "We in the United States must not fall into the error of blaming ourselves for what the Communists do; after all, Communists will act like Communists."

Congressional comment on the speech indicated a general satisfaction that tours by heads of state are wanted. But while the publicans accepted Eisenhower's statement that big gains had been made by such tours, Democrats limited themselves to expression of hope that was true.

Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) of the Foreign Relations Committee said that "the President's decision not to make any more trips is a sound one."

But Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.), while welcoming more emphasis on established diplomatic channels, commented that "we must admire the President's willingness to make another trip if he felt it would do any good."

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, the Senate Republican leader, called Eisenhower's speech "an adequate answer" to critics of the latest trip, and Sen. Alexander Wiley (R-Wis.) said the speech was "very good — it expresses the American viewpoint."

Eisenhower accused the Soviet and Red Chinese leaders of being engaged in "a deliberate attempt to split the free world, causing friction between allies and friends."

"We must not fall into this trap," he asserted. "All of us must remain firm and steadfast in our united dedication to free-dom, and to peace with justice."

Warns of Auto Holiday Toll

CHICAGO (AP)—The National Safety Council said today that the nation's traffic deaths toll over the month of July would be around 370.

Disabling injuries in traffic accidents during the three day week-end which begins at 6 p. m. Friday (local time) and ends at midnight Monday could total 13,000, the council said.

With nearly all of the nation's 78 million motor vehicles expected to be on the roads at one time or another, traveling some 7.2 billion miles, the council offered these safe driving tips: Don't speed; don't drink don't tuss and tume.

Bill Extending Taxes a Year Sent to Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Tuesday sent to President Eisenhower the bill extending four billion dollars of federal taxes another year and granting another temporary debt ceiling increase.

The rollcall vote was 61 to 32. The President must sign the measure before Thursday midnight to prevent the loss of the tax revenue and also to keep the national debt limit above the Treasury's obligations.

Extended by the bill through June 30, 1961, are the 52 per cent corporation income tax levy, which otherwise would drop to 47 per cent; and excises on liquor, wine, beer, cigarettes, autos, auto parts and accessories, passenger cars, and local telephone service.

All of the rates in the bill except those on travel and telephones originally were enacted in the Korean War. This is the seventh successive year they have been extended. The travel and phone levies date from World War II.

The House passed the compromise legislation Monday.

Burglars Get 15 Tires From Station

The Byers Amoco station on Third Street was hit by thieves last night and according to the owner 15 new tires of various sizes are missing. The burglars broke in through the rear window. City Police are investigating.

Auto Hits Light Pole Near Park

On Park Drive last night an auto driven by A. G. Martin Jr. slammed into the light pole, badly damaging the pole and the automobile. City Police reported. Officers Martin and Shirley said the entire left side of the car was damaged. Martin was not injured, and to peace with justice."

Installs New Lion Officers

Edward G. Barry
Yesterday new Lions Club officers were installed by Edward G. Barry, Little Rock, former president of Lions International and one of the most outstanding Lions Club figures in Arkansas. Jim James is the new president; Lloyd Levorett, secretary; treasurer: James Morrow, Harry Phillips and Mitchell LaGrone, vice president; W. H. Quinter and Bill Routon, tail twisters; Don Simpson, Lion tamer and Harold Brants, Ferrell Williams, Hubert Thrash and Jimmie Griffin, board of directors.

Public Hearings on Medical Aid for Aged Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate Finance Committee today decided to have two days of public hearings on the House bill to provide limited medical care for the aged.

This reversed a previous decision to try to get on the politically potent legislation without any open testimony.

It raised more doubt that Congress can finish its work before the Democratic National Convention opens July 11, particularly since there is considerable Senate sentiment for broadening the House bill.

The committee said Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming would be the opening witness at the first day of public sessions Wednesday. The hearings will continue Thursday.

Other witnesses will be limited to 1 minutes, the committee decided. It has received many requests from doctors and others to appear.

The committee met in closed session today with Flemming and several of his social security experts on the provisions of the House bill. The measure carries some changes in the social security law aside from the medical care proposal.

"Hi, toots," he said amiably, and thereupon lowered himself down beside her without invitation. "Like what you see?" He said.

Chapter I
Jick Roche, whose first name, Amlee, was used by nobody except her mother, was studying the new young man with a curiosity that she took no pains to conceal. If one were to select Jick's dominant characteristic, it would, without argument, be curiosity. She was inquisitive about events, about people, about the significance of trifles.
Her friends said that she was like a cat in a strange house, wherever she went, because she could not compose herself until she had nosed into all the corners. Her second most noteworthy characteristic was that she pigeonholed. She hoarded facts and impressions for a rainy day. And her memory was a systematic filing system in which nothing was ever mislaid. Not alone major facts, but also inconsequential such as what necktie her father wore last Thursday; or that the painter, Walker Bayside, had funny little nicks in his left-hand thumbnail; or that it was exactly 43 steps from the entrance gate in the sage hedge separating the lawn from the parking space to the front door of the house.
Now she was scrutinizing this new young man, whose name was oddly enough Artemus Baldwin, as if he were an interesting specimen under a microscope.
She estimated that he was an inch under six feet, and determined to ask him his exact height. He wore a checked sport coat whose shoulders were a thought too wide and whose waist

DOROTHY DIX
Greater Love Hath No Woman
By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE
Dear Helen Worden Erskine:
I am 31 years old and the mother of two children. Seventeen months ago I met a man with whom I fell deeply in love. He was having a serious emotional problem. Because of this he got into trouble and was sent to prison.
I have been writing him and he me, three and four times a week. I know he is a really fine person and that when he comes home we shall have a good life together. I, myself, know he has changed. Anybody who knows about him insists that he won't change because he has been in prison. Do you think I'm wrong in having so much faith in this man that I'm willing to fight anyone who says differently? —Old Faithful.
Dear Old Faithful: If you had told me what your sweetheart was convicted of, and why he did what he did, I could answer better, but as it is, I can only deal in generalities. Many men have lived down prison records. In most cases the love and faith of a good woman was the deciding factor. If your man has told you everything, you know the worst and the best about him.
This may help you help him. When people condemn him for his prison record, quote Epictetus, the Greek philosopher: "Forgiveness is better than punishment; for the one is proof of a gentle, the other of a savage nature."
Dear Helen Worden Erskine:
When our two sons were small, my husband called one "Popsey," the other "Kiddo." Now they are 17 and 21. He calls them "Hey," or "You," or "The Kids." And the same with me, for 22 years. But he calls my dog "Pal," which is the dog's name and my parakeet "Cookie."
I often ask him why he doesn't call his family by their real names. He won't answer. His mother told me that his father never called her by her real name. I am a hair-dresser. When my customers hear my husband call me, "Hey, you!" or "Old lady," it makes me very ashamed. Can you help me? —Phyllis.
Dear Phyllis: It isn't what your husband calls you or the boys, it's the way he says it which matters. Don't worry your head so long as he does it in affection. Keep your sense of humor. He may think given names too formal.

For those he loves. If, on the other hand, he calls you "old lady" with malicious intent, all is not well with your marriage. Clear the air with a good, heart-to-heart talk before it is too late.
Dear Helen Worden Erskine:
My husband is insanely jealous. I've had enough of his beatings. Saturday night we and another couple went out, had a few drinks and danced. A fellow asked my husband if he might dance with me. My husband said yes, then beat me up when we got home. I cook for my two brothers-in-law, father-in-law and two hired men which, with our family, makes 14 people every day. I've been married 12 years and had 13 children (one set of twins). Seven children are living. Do you blame me for wanting fun?
Since the last beating I've been thinking of taking the three smallest children and leaving home. The others are old enough to stay with their father. Saturday night he said he was going to shoot me. He does a lot of drinking. I get sick. —Hopeless.
Dear Hopeless: Unhappy though this situation is, you just can't walk out and leave all your children with a father who drinks. He's as much of a responsibility as the children. You must stay and take charge.
You've been too easy going. The very fact that you've had 13 children in 12 years, and as if that weren't enough, cook for 14 people at a setting, is proof of your submissiveness. Meekness is not a virtue. Show some spunk. Running away won't solve your problem.
Next time your husband starts to beat you, call in the neighbors, the police, the whole countryside. Make him realize the disgrace he is to himself and his family. Once he sees what this excessive drinking is doing to him; he may straighten up. But to be effective, the desire to reform must come from within him. When he's sober, talk to him in the same frank way you have written me.
Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

Mayfield-Mitchell Marriage Solemnized
In a candlelight ceremony on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock in the First Presbyterian Church in the First Presbyterian Church of Martha Ann Mitchell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mitchell, became the bride of Jack Allen Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Mayfield of Las Cruces, New Mexico, in the presence of the immediate families and close friends.
Rev. J. H. Robertson performed the double ring ceremony. The altar was decorated with floor baskets filled with white gladioli and majestic daisies. Burning white cathedral tapers in wrought iron candelabra with a background of greenery completed the setting. Organ music was provided by Mrs. Warren Cummings.
The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor length princess gown of white silk organza fashioned with a yoke of lace and ending in a chapel train. Her finger tip veil of illusion was attached to a crown of seed pearls. She wore a pearl pendant, gift of the groom, and carried a colonial bouquet of fleur d' amour.
Her attendant was Mrs. Jack Bolls of Hope who was attired in a dress of white brocade and carried a bouquet of pink feathered mums.
Dr. Jerry Mayfield served his brother as best man. Ushers were James Earl May of Bodew and Raymond Garrett.
Artemus Baldwin was equally agile. Somehow he, too, seemed to sense that Bill was not waving and shouting just for fun. He out-distanced Jack.
"Keep Jack back," North said. "Don't let her come. There's a dead man up here."
"Then," snapped Baldwin, "why didn't you come down and whist per it. Instead of bawling your head off?" And then to Jack, who had caught up with him. "Better scram back, chicken!"
"He said a dead man!" Jack gasped, breathless from running. "Dead men," said Baldwin at last, "ain't your rack-Bill Oates. Mrs. Glenn Hairston. Not good manners to be dead up on a hill."
"I'm going to see," she said. Baldwin shrugged. "If you top me over, I'll let you lie where you fall," he said.

No Place Like Home to Those Baltimore Boys
BASEBALL — SPORTS
By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

There's no place like home for the Baltimore Orioles. Good thing, too. If there was, they wouldn't be contenders in the American League pennant race.
After regaining first place with their second 10-4 road trip of the season, the Birds returned home and slipped to second Monday night, losing to Washington, 5-2 in 10 innings when the Senators broke a 2-2 tie with three unearned runs.
The loss ended Baltimore's winning streak at four and put the Orioles three percentage points behind New York, again. It also put their home record at 18-15, compared to a 23-13 mark on the road. This was their third straight loss at home, and they've lost seven of their last 10 games in Memorial Stadium.
No other games were scheduled in the majors; although there were three exhibition games, including the 19th annual "Hall of Fame game" at Cooperstown, N. Y., where the Chicago Cubs beat Cleveland 5-0. The Los Angeles Dodgers defeated New York 4-3 in a charity game that drew 33,492 at Yankee Stadium. And the International League All Stars rapped the Milwaukee Braves 7-2 at Toronto.
The sixth-place Senators, now 5-5 for the season against Baltimore, twice blew one-run leads behind left-hander Jack Kralick (3-0), who went all the way in his first major league start. Hoyt Wilhelm (5-5) was the loser in relief, although giving up only a pair of bunts. The knuckleballing right-hander had won three straight, all on the road, and had a string of 17 1-0 scoreless innings going into the 10th.
Bob Allison led off the 10th with a walk and stole third after Lennie Green beat out a bunt. Both scored on second baseman Marv

Storms Hit Northern Plains Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Thunderstorms crackled over the northern Plains today after tornadoes churned through parts of three states, smashed farm buildings and hurled two motorists to death.
A pair of twisters touched down north of Holyoke, in northeastern Colorado, Monday night. One man died when his car was tossed 200 yards. A mile away another man's car was thrown into a roadside ditch, killing him.
The turbulent weather pattern extended eastward into Nebraska and popped up in North Dakota. Numerous tornadoes were sighted which failed to touch ground.
The Nebraska funnel hit more than a dozen farms near Sidney, in the southwestern part of the state, and wrecked all buildings on four farms. A few miles north of the wind-raked area, a severe hailstorm pounded wheat fields into ruin on at least seven farms near Gurley.
Considerable damage to farm buildings by a tornado was reported near Venturia, N.D., 75 miles southeast of Bismarck. Hall also hit the area.
Two injuries were reported in the Colorado storms.
A storm system rolling up the Mississippi Valley set off general rain and occasional thunderstorms northward through the lower Great Lakes region. Jackson, Tenn., got a 1.71-inch soaking in six hours Monday night.
Breeding's wild throw to the plate on Julio Becquer's grounder. Becquer then came around as Billy Gardner bunted safely and Hal Naragon hit into a doubleplay.

Sixty-six counties in Arkansas raised soybeans commercially in 1938, with 22 producing more than one million bushels each.

Woman Hit and Killed by Truck

PARAGOULD, Ark. (AP)—Mrs. Laura Henderson, 60, was killed yesterday when she was struck by a state Highway Department truck as she crossed the highway from her mail box.
Sheriff Bill Hyde said she was used to wait for a car to go by, then stepped into the path of the truck driven by Jimmy Horton, 22, of Paragould.
Clear skies were the rule through the Northeast and much of the Far West.

Miss Judith Evans, Honored With Bridal Shower

Miss Judith Elaine Evans, bride-elect of James Edward Helm, was honored with a bridal shower in the Shower Springs Fellowship Hall Friday evening June 24.

Misses: Fred Hunt, John H. Hawkins, Roy Rogers, Sam England, Earlie McWilliams, Howell Byers, and M. B. Gentry were hostesses for the occasion.

The honoree and mother, Mrs. Edward Evans, were presented corsages of white carnations. Miss Sonya Berk of Magnolia, Mrs. Joe Gentry, and Judith Evans received game prizes. As the bride-elect opened her gifts, they were displayed to the guests.

The serving table covered with a hand-embroidered linen cloth was centered with an arrangement of white and pink gladiolus. Misses Sharon Evans and Ida Nell England, alternating served up party cakes embossed in pink and white with the inscription "Judy and James."

Miss Vincent Johnson presided at the Crystal punch bowl. Forty guests enjoyed the occasion.

Ladies Bridge Club Meets With Mrs. Tammy Doyle

A local Ladies Bridge Club met with Mrs. Tammy Doyle on Wednesday, June 22. The two tables of players included one new member, Mrs. Billy Wray, and two guests, Mrs. V. R. Herndon, Jr. and Mrs. Van Moore.

Miss Shirley Willis Honored With Bridal Shower

On Wednesday, June 22 Miss Shirley Willis was honored with a miscellaneous bridal shower by Miss Joan Willis in the home of the latter. The guest of honor wore a pink dacton and cotton dress, and her corsage was white rosebuds.

Games were played by the 15 guests. The many nice gifts were opened and displayed on a table overlaid with a lace cloth and centered with a bouquet of pink rosebuds. The guests were served frosted punch, colored mints, and coconut cake squares.

Miss Emily Naron and Jerry Lee Wilson Exchange Wedding Vows

On the afternoon of June 5 Miss Emily Naron, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Naron of Little Rock formerly of Dermott, and Jerry Lee Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Audrey Wilson of Hope, were joined in holy matrimony in the chapel of the Highland Methodist Church in Little Rock.

Rites for the double-ring ceremony were performed by the Rev. Warren Golden. Miss Simone Golden of Little Rock, pianist, furnished the music. Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with Shasta daisies.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her silk suit was off-white. With it she wore a matching petal hat and a necklace of pearls. She carried white carnations centered with a white orchid.

Miss Judy Genero of Dermott was the maid of honor for the bride. She wore a yellow organdy dress with a matching bandeau in her hair. Her corsage was of green carnations.

Jimmy Allen served the bridegroom as best man. After the wedding a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents. From the bride's table decorated with garden flowers, the wedding cake was served by Miss Genero and the punch by Miss June Bates of Little Rock.

The newlyweds have now returned from a short wedding trip and are at home near Hope on the Patmos road.

Lighter Side of Life Over the World

By Dick West

WASHINGTON (UPI)—I seem to have mislaid my calendar but I judge from the number of legs I've been seeing recently that summer is here at last. This means that it's mountain climbing time again.

Already advance parties of climbing expeditions are arriving here to set up base camps in the foothills, hire guides and buy supplies.

As soon as the weather turns a bit more hot and muggy, these intrepid adventurers will slip into their short shorts, lace on their flat-heeled shoes and start inching their way in the craggy slopes of Capitol Hill.

None More Challenging

If luck is with them, several thousand of the more hardy climbers will experience the exhilaration that comes with setting foot on the summit, which in all history has only been conquered by 47,270,931 men, women and Brownie Scouts.

Of all the world's majestic peaks, none is more challenging to the climber than Capitol Hill, which rises to the spectacular height of 41 feet above the tail of General Grant's horse.

If you happen to be planning an expedition this summer, I recommend that you establish a base camp in the Mayflower Hotel. The accommodations there are rather primitive, but the natives are friendly and generally sanitary.

Upon leaving the base camp, expeditions usually proceed in an easterly direction along a grassy plain known as "The Mall," taking their bearings from the Washington Monument.

This takes them to the foot of Capitol Hill, where the climbers Shreveport, La.; and Mr. and Mrs. Dale Askew of Lake Charles, La.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs the bride wore a black and white checked suit with white accessories. She pinned the orchid from her bouquet at her shoulder.

After several days the newlyweds will go to Indianapolis, Ind., where the bridegroom's parents will have Open House on July 13 to introduce the new bride. Upon their return the couple will be at home in Ft. Worth, Tex.

100 Reported Dead

MANILA (AP)—Nearly 100 persons were reported dead and several hundred are missing tonight after Typhoon Olive raked the main Philippine island of Luzon.

Manila, a city of two million, was partially paralyzed by the 60-mile-an-hour winds and driving rain of the storm, which hacked a northwesterly path across Luzon late Sunday and Monday and then churned out into the China Sea.

Even pause at Grant's statue to check their equipment, obtain more guides, if needed, and take on a fresh supply of popples, toothpicks, hire guides and buy supplies.

Now a decision must be made whether to approach the summit from the Senate side, past the Cave of the Winds, or from the House side, whence sprang the legend of the "abominable con-gressmen."

Either route is hazardous, but once you reach the summit and drink in the inspiring view of Shin Rayburn's head shining in the distance, it all somehow seems worthwhile.

House Votes to Keep Tax Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today passed legislation continuing four billion dollars worth of taxes that would expire Thursday midnight unless Congress acted.

Passage was by voice vote. The bill went to the Senate, which is expected to send in the final favorable congressional vote.

The measure, which also sets the national debt limit at 293 billion dollars for the next year, is a compromise between versions passed earlier by the House and Senate.

It continues at the present rates the corporate income tax and various excise taxes largely stemming from the Korean War period.

But the Senate and House members who worked out the compromise dropped Senate proposals which would have added an estimated 600 million dollars annually to the tax collections.

These proposals were to end the 4 per cent dividend allowance on income tax and to tighten up the law on deduction of business entertainment and similar outlays.

A degree of tightening on some mineral depletion deductions was included in the compromise bill.

The Treasury strongly urged Congress to continue all the so-called Korean War taxes. It estimated the annual loss of revenue at four billion dollars if this were not done. It argued that any hope of balancing the budget would be lost. The taxes, without congressional action, would expire or

Musician Is Held in Slaying of 5

BALTIMORE (AP)—U.S. Atty. Leon H. Pierson asks a federal grand jury today to indict a 31-year-old dance band musician charged with the kidnap-murder of a Virginia family of four.

An indictment would simplify the government's prosecution of Melvin D. Rees Jr., now held in the Shelby County jail at Memphis.

The FBI explained earlier that if he were indicted he could be brought here easily, but otherwise witnesses would have to be taken to Memphis for a detailed hearing.

The federal charge against Rees is interstate kidnapping because Mrs. Carroll V. Jackson Jr., 28, of Apple Grove, Va., and her daughter, Susan Ann, 5, were taken across state lines. They were found dead in March, 1959, near Cambrills, Md.

Rees is charged with murder by Virginia authorities in the slaying of the other two members of the family—the husband and an 18-month-old daughter, Janet—whose bodies were found near Fredericksburg, Va., 17 days before the mother and older daughter were found.

Yesterday, Virginia added the charge of kidnapping against Rees. Commonwealth's Atty. W. Earle Crank said a warrant issued would be taken to Memphis and served on Rees.

The lanky, dair-haired defendant was selling pianos in West Memphis, Ark., when FBI agents arrested him last Friday. He was picked up on a warrant charging unlawful flight to avoid prosecution in an earlier Maryland murder.

Mrs. Margaret V. Harold, 36, a civilian clerk at Ft. Meade, Md., was shot to death June 26, 1957, while sitting in a parked car near Gambrills with an Army sergeant then stationed at Meade.

Rees is to be given a hearing in Memphis July 6 on federal charges in both the Jackson and Harold cases. He is held in $5,000 bail on each charge.

House Votes to Keep Tax Measures

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House today passed legislation continuing four billion dollars worth of taxes that would expire Thursday midnight unless Congress acted.

Passage was by voice vote. The bill went to the Senate, which is expected to send in the final favorable congressional vote.

The measure, which also sets the national debt limit at 293 billion dollars for the next year, is a compromise between versions passed earlier by the House and Senate.

It continues at the present rates the corporate income tax and various excise taxes largely stemming from the Korean War period.

But the Senate and House members who worked out the compromise dropped Senate proposals which would have added an estimated 600 million dollars annually to the tax collections.

These proposals were to end the 4 per cent dividend allowance on income tax and to tighten up the law on deduction of business entertainment and similar outlays.

A degree of tightening on some mineral depletion deductions was included in the compromise bill.

The Treasury strongly urged Congress to continue all the so-called Korean War taxes. It estimated the annual loss of revenue at four billion dollars if this were not done. It argued that any hope of balancing the budget would be lost. The taxes, without congressional action, would expire or

THE STORY OF MARTHA WAYNE

Some lug," he said, "made a social error." He thrust the bill into his pocket.

THE STORY: A body has been found on a hillside near the Roche place in Arizona. Artemus Baldwin, a young man whose clothes are just a little flashy, and whose manners are too studied, and Jack Roche, who finds him an interesting specimen, run to the scene.

Chapter II

They followed Bill North around a shoulder of the hill, scrambling. There was a jutting rock, and on the far side of it was a body.

"Store clothes," Jack said. She was not pale. She did not feel pale. It was grim, but she was neither squeamish nor frightened. "Fancy shoes," she said. "Not all scuffed," she thought it — (augh melodramatic. That money says something."

"I don't get the idea," Jack
said, "and I shall tell him."
He grinned at her. "If you
do," he said, "I'll haunt you.
Likewise, and in addition I'll tell him you're a cock-eyed liar. I'll tell them to search me. They won't find my phony 10-spot. I guarantee - make you look silly.
Now you better leg it to a telephone. I'll stay here with the stiff — somebody's got to. Pedal off, baby, pedal off. And don't go playing out of your league. The pitching'll be too hot."

Baldwin was searching the dead man's pockets, but someone had already done that. There was nothing — nothing to establish identity.
"Shouldn't we tell the police?"
Jack asked.
"Don't rush me, sister. Take it easy." Baldwin sat back on his heels and seemed to study the body as if it might tell him something. Then he hunched his shoulders and stood up. "Not the cops, cupcake; the sheriff. This is out in the country." He spread the currency on the sand, each bill by itself to dry in the sun. Jack stared watching him silently. Suddenly she sensed that he saw something invisible to her. "He reached out strong fingers and picked up a $10 bill and scrutinized. He looked long and closely at one side and then turned it over to pore over the other side.
"What's funny about that bill?"
His eyes were level and cold as he looked up at her. "Some-lug," he said, "made a social error." He folded the bill and thrust it into his pocket.
"You mustn't do that!" she exclaimed.
"Says who?"
"What's funny about that bill?"
she demanded.
"If you weren't nosy, you wouldn't ask," he said flatly.
"Is it marked?" she wanted to know.
"Not marked," he said shortly.
She thought it over. "Then the only other reason it could be funny," she said, "is an account of it is counterfeit. How could you be able to know it is counterfeit?"

Baldwin did not answer. She watched him with widening eyes as he took his own wallet out of his pocket and selected a $10 bill.
He rumpled it and put it in his mouth to dampen it. Then he spread it on the sand with the others that had been taken from the dead man's mouth.
"Didn't want you to get wrong ideas," he said. "I don't swipe $10 bills."
"Not good enough," she said tartly.
"Look," he said, "this sheriff is going to have more than his hands full with a murder on his hands.
He'd get dizzy if it got complicated by a phony 10-spot. He might blow his top and get lugged off to the loony bin. I got sympathy for that sheriff; I'm protection him. Get the idea?"

"I don't get the idea," Jack
said, "and I shall tell him."
He grinned at her. "If you
do," he said, "I'll haunt you.
Likewise, and in addition I'll tell him you're a cock-eyed liar. I'll tell them to search me. They won't find my phony 10-spot. I guarantee - make you look silly.
Now you better leg it to a telephone. I'll stay here with the stiff
— somebody's got to. Pedal off,
baby, pedal off. And don't go playing out of your league. The pitching'll be too hot."

They found a telephone a couple of miles down the road and talked to the sheriff's office in Phoenix. Then they sat in Jack's station wagon and waited. Bill North did not smoke cigarettes because his stomach continued to misbehave. Jack lolled back behind the wheel, stretching out her delectable legs, and thought things over. Mostly, she thought about Artemus Baldwin because he was puzzling and she doted on coping with puzzles.
She took up mentally the matter of the counterfeit bill and how it happened that Baldwin recognized it as such, and what possible reason he could have had for snatching it and replacing it with a genuine note of his own — to his financial loss. It was a waste of good money to swap a bad $10 note for a good one, and Jack was a person who liked to get her money's worth. It was obvious that he did not want the bill to get possession of that bogus currency. To say the very least, his conduct was peculiar, and to say the most, it was suspicious.
"Bill," she asked suddenly, "if you don't see where a thing leads, what do you do about it?"
Bill North owned a practical and literal mind. "I tend to my own business."
"You dodge issues," Jack accused.
"Sure," Bill admitted. "I don't want any truck with issues. I let things slide."
"Maybe you're right," she said, puckering her eyes, "but I like positive reasons and I abhor negative reasons. It'll take the cops an hour to get here. Anybody can make up her mind about anything in 60 minutes. If not, she is a very poor mind-maker-up. Or maybe impulsive?"
"What impulse?" Bill asked without special interest.
"Just don't try to make up your mind at all until you come, hang face to face with it, and then sort of blurt. You haven't got a subconscious, have you, Bill?"
"What's that?" Bill asked.
"It's a thingumajig inside of you that takes charge," Jack said.
"I guess I'll turn this jiggerypokery over to it and see what happens. . . . Say, Bill, who's this Artemus Baldwin?" Bill shrugged. "You see him around."
"Around where?"
"Oh around, like at the dog track, or like that."

After many long, hot minutes the sheriff and myrmidons drove up. Things became practical and rather stupid and running around in circles — with photographs of the spot marked X, and acting important, but being as completely bewildered as people who were not the law. And everybody had to give his name and address and nobody could identify the corpse, who, Jack thought, was sitting or, rather, lying for most nothing, but waited for her subconscious to take charge—which, perversely, it did not do, leaving everything up in the air, and no decision whatever on Artemus Baldwin and the $10 counterfeit note.

Baldwin seemed not at all worried, and when the sheriff and his minions and the corpse went away with no disclosures made, he grinned at her and winked in a way that annoyed Jack.
"Why," he asked, "didn't you give out?"
"Not," she said brusquely, "out of consideration for you."

Davis' Lead

cut deeply into the governor's early lead. At one time, he was more than 8,000 votes ahead of Burdick and coasting along with a comfortable 66 per cent of the total ballot.
But as the figures from the outlying rural areas came in, Democrats predicted a Burdick victory by as much as 5,000 votes.
"We've got it in the bag," said
Scott Anderson, Democratic campaign director. "It's only a matter of time."
Davis, however, said he was still confident of victory.
"We were worried for a while,"
he said, "but now we're standing up straight. It looks like it will go down to the wire."
This is the nation's first head-on collision between the two major parties in a farm state.

As such, it may indicate dissatisfaction throughout the farm belt with the agriculture program as administered by Secretary Ezra Taft Benson. Analysts in both parties are watching the North Dakota election with an eye on the November battle for the presidency.
Davis, as expected, rolled up a commanding lead in the cities.
He did not, however, do as well in this election as he did in 1958 when he defeated John Lord, a Democratic attorney, for the governorship.

Two years ago, Davis carried Fargo, the largest city, by 64 per cent; today his margin is 53 per cent. He carried Minot by 56 per cent in 1958, and 51 per cent today. In Bismarck, the capital, his 1958 edge was 64 per cent as against 62 per cent today.
In short, the governor did not come out of the cities with as long a lead as he was expected to need to offset the farm vote.
Burdick was expected to pull heavily in the rural areas.
He beamed his campaign to sharp and unremitting criticism of Secretary Benson, the farm program, and particularly the soil bank. One of his campaign slogans was "Beat Benson with baby carriage."

Ed Bryson and Ed Bryson of Russellville were the weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs.
H. H. McKenzie and Jim. Miss Mary Beth Bryson remained for a longer visit.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Teeter and Mrs. J. B. Hesterly moved to Little Rock Friday for the day.

Jean Buchanan, Sally Jo Wal-kins and Jean Cunningham attended the Senior High Presbyterian conference at Ferneliff last week.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robey and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Nelson attended a Soil Conservation Awards dinner at Hank's Dog House in Little Rock on Friday. Mr. Robey received an award of merit.
Rev. and Mrs. Daniel W.
Adams and daughter of Everett Mass., were the Friday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Pemberton and W. T. Hart.
Mrs. Grace Gee and granddaughter, Kitty Carr of Vadadille, Calif., are the guests of her father, Lee Rogers.

DOROTHY DIX

Tyrannical Father Beats His Daughter

By HELEN WORDEN ERSKINE

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:
I, alone, do not come to you for help. My mother has asked me to call upon you too. Our problem is my father.

He doesn't believe in letting us have any friends, fun of any kind, or in letting us go any place. He accuses us of the lowest things, calls us horrible names and has even threatened our lives. My mother has no education and we have no money to pay for a lawyer to set us free from him.

A month ago he gave me a beating. I still carry the marks. Can you help us, or tell us of anyone to whom we could turn? —Despairing

Dear Despairing: Do you belong to any church? Have you a family doctor? If so, appeal to either the minister of your church or your doctor. If you have neither, look up the nearest Legal Aid Society of Family Welfare Council. Tell these people just what you have written me. They exist to handle just such problems as you and your mother face—close at hand. Meanwhile I am checking with a friend in the local welfare service here and will advise you further.

Two years ago I met a boy at a party who was everything a girl could want. It was love at first sight. Our romance ended in an affair. We tried a six months' trial separation. During this period I met another boy who thought the world of me. I insisted upon telling him about my affair, explaining that I did what I did out of love for this first boy. He said it made no difference. Going with him has salvaged my reputation. People respect me now.

Several months after we met his mother took sick and he went back home to take care of her. The first boy and I started going together again. It has led to another affair. Recently the second boy asked me to marry him. I don't intend to marry till I'm 21. He said he would wait. I like him but I love the first boy. I told my parents the whole story. My confidence in them has drawn us closer. Do you think it right to throw the boy you love down the drain for someone you feel you owe something to? —What-to-do

Dear What-to-do: I suspect the first boy has more physical appeal than the second, but he doesn't emerge as fine a nature.

If he really loved you, he'd be camping on your doorstep regardless of good resolutions, clamoring for you to name the day. Let your intelligence guide you in self-restraint and selection. True love is a combination of the physical and the spiritual. Some day you'll meet the boy who can give you both.

Dear Helen Worden Erskine:
I am married and have a son 18 months old. My husband and I haven't gotten along since we were married. I want a divorce badly. But my mother-in-law and husband said they would bring up my past and it would stand against me and I would lose my baby. I love the baby very much. I couldn't bear to lose him. Please tell me what to do. —Worried

Dear Worried: You must be a pretty good daughter-in-law and wife, else your husband and his mother would welcome your desire for a divorce. The threat to bring up your past is probably more her doing than his. Your past, once condoned, cannot be reason for divorce.

Send your problem to Helen Worden Erskine. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope, and address her in care of this newspaper.

Congress Will

turn after the conventions saying such a session would be likely to produce only pre-election political banality.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress drive for a pre-convention adjournment appeared to waver today. There was a growing conviction among some members that they'd have to come back for another session in August.

This is particularly tough on House members, all of whom must run for re-election in November. They are anxious to get back home and mend political fences. But many House members said privately they're planning an August session to clean up major legislation.

On the Senate side, hope has not been abandoned that the "must" legislation can be turned out before the Democratic convention opens July 11 in Los Angeles.

Senate and House leaders may reach the point of decision by the end of the week. If they decide the work can't be done without an August session, Congress probably will recess then or early next week.

This would leave the three Democratic presidential hopefuls in the Senate free for pre-convention maneuvers. They are Sens. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, Stuart Symington of Missouri and John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts.

With the adjournment still in doubt, this was the situation:

1. The House Rules Committee, having to pressure from Democratic leaders, Tuesday turned loose a bill to raise the minimum hourly wage from $1 to $1.25 over three years and extend coverage to 3 1/2 million more workers. With it went a substitute bill with a $1.15 minimum wage, and a more limited extension of coverage, to 1,400,000 workers. The House may vote Thursday.

2. The same Rules Committee by a 6-6 vote refused to clear a $1,305,000,000 housing bill pushed by Democratic leaders. That just about killed chances for its passage before the conventions. Rep. Albert Rains (D-Ala.), chairman of the Housing subcommittee, said, "There has to be a housing bill. There has to be. August will be time enough."

3. A Senate-House conference committee Tuesday night agreed on a compromise defense money bill providing just under 40 billion dollars and including most of the administration's requests. It probably will come up in the House for expected approval Friday.

4. As expected, the Senate passed and sent to the President the annual tax extension bill. It temporarily increases the federal debt limit and extends four billion dollars in federal taxes for another year.

5. The Senate shelved—by sending it back to committee—a bill to rewrite the player-draft rules of organized baseball and to provide limited exemption from antitrust laws for baseball and three other professional team sports.

Several key bills which Democratic leaders consider politically necessary this session remain tied up in the House Rules Committee headed by Rep. Howard W. Smith (D-Va.). It is dominated by a Republican—Southern Democratic conservative bloc.

In addition to the housing bill, the Rules Committee is sitting on federal school aid legislation and may be in a position to tie up federal health care for the aged.

Allowed to Appeal
LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Six Negro students will be allowed to appeal to the Arkansas Supreme Court from $500 fines levied after lunch counter sit-in case. Attorney Harold B. Anderson, in filing a motion for a new trial yesterday, contended his clients' fines were excessive. Circuit Judge William J. Kirby, who set the fines June 11, denied the motion and granted the appeal. Previously, Kirby denied Municipal Court fines when the Negro students appealed to the six (Phil) andor Smith College students. Another group of Negro students arrested during an earlier demonstration also is appealing fines levied by Kirby.
